WRITING

Anna had a very special reason for getting up early the next day, so she set the alarm clock for 5am. She ^{had} waken up before the alarm ringed because she was really nervous. It was her exams, and she never had experience like that before. ~~Anna~~ Anna went to the bathroom and washed her face. "You are going to pass ~~them~~, you are the best!", said the girl to the mirror. She packed her bag and went to the school, thinking about the formulas and historical dates. The girl walked into the class and took a seat. She saw a frighten in her classmates' eyes. Teacher gave blanks to the all students and said: "You have two hours to finish the exam". Anna looked at the first question and realised that she is not ready for that. She said "loudly": "I am not going to pass it! I am the worst!" Even the weath became worse. Isn't that ironic?
